Science Fair

Elizabeth Siemens, Principal

Being able to use and apply the scientific method is a recurring topic within all science curriculums from grades 1 to 9. As such, we wanted to spend time working with the scientific method right off the bat this year. As a result, we focused our first round of grade 4 to 9 STEAM Projects on Science Fair. As a result, students have been learning about and applying the scientific method over the past 2 months.

For example, they had to decide on a problem or question to answer, what they would manipulate (only one thing), and what they would measure in response to that manipulation or change. They also had to decide what had to remain constant throughout the experiment. In addition, they had to make a list of materials they needed.

As we wind down this first trimester of STEAM Projects, the students are compiling their results and making conclusions. Their process will be displayed for the public and science fair judges on December 3, 2024. Please feel free to join us at the gym starting at 1:30 pm.
